

Sherif Attia is a former Civil Aviation Minister of Egypt. He is currently the Secretary General of the Arab Tourism Organization, board member of the International Partners for Aviation Development, Innovation and Sustainability organization-iPADIES and the Chairperson of several companies.

With over 30 years of executive management experience, he worked for: KLM-Royal Dutch Airlines as Regional Manager at several countries, the International Air Transport Association-IATA as Regional Director, Air Arabia as COO, Air Cairo & Egypt Air as Chairman and CEO.

He also served as the head of the general assembly and board member of several companies & associations including: IATA board of governors, the executive committees of the Arab Air Carriers' Organization-AACO & the African Airlines' Association-AFRAA.