

ROBERT LAWSON QC

Robert Lawson QC is a partner of Clyde & Co LLP and Chair of its Aviation Global Practice Group. He has been in legal practice for just over 30 years, first at the independent Bar in London and since 2017 at Clyde & Co. Rob was appointed Queen's Counsel (QC) in 2009 and is a Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society. He has been recognised as a leading practitioner in aviation by all of the major legal directories. In 2020 he was named by the Legal 500 as its Transport: Individual (London) of the year, and by Who's Who Legal as its Aviation – Regulatory Lawyer of the year.

Throughout his career Rob has focussed upon the world of, and law relating to, aviation related liability, regulation and contentious work. He has acted in several cases establishing important legal precedent relating to air carrier liability, and has acted for and advised air carriers and their liability insurers in respect of a number of aircraft accidents and issues arising therefrom.
