Brief Biography of Speaker:

Throughout his presentation Jean-François LA MANNA highlights the benefits of the holistic coordinated and integrated approach of the ICAO TRIP programme. As an international expert in identity management and with the aim of better assisting countries in their Aviation Security and Facilitation strategic objectives Jean-François also suggests a specific focus to be made on the key and foundational step of securing the Evidence of Identification (EoI) process in the ICAO TRIP programme.

Jean-François LA MANNA is graduated with an Aeronautical Engineering Diploma from the French Air Force Academy where he began his career and first encountered the aviation sector. He both holds a Business Consulting Master's Degree from ESCP Europe International School of Management and a Telecommunications Engineering Diploma from TelecomParisTech.

Jean-François has more than 20 years experience as a veteran from the French Gendarmerie where he piloted huge operational programmes with regard to security technologies, cyber-defence, mobile terminals and biometrics, identification and digital signature.

Till a recent date he worked as an Expert Project Director at the French Ministry of Interior, being an adviser to the French delegation and active participant to the ICAO MRTD/TRIP TAG (Technical Advisory Group) and its related working groups.

Jean-François now offers his expertise to help the Aviation Security and Facilitation stakeholders best leveraging their efforts in adopting and implementing ICAO and identity management best practices.
