

Bio Information

Speaker's Name:

GEORGE ANJAPARIDZE

Affiliation/Company:

IATA

Title/Position:

Senior Economist – Economic Regulation and Policy

Brief Biography of Speaker:

George Anjaparidze is Senior Economist in IATA's Chief Economist department. His work areas are economic regulation and public policy, focusing on air transport infrastructure, international trade, and environment. His previous international experience includes multilateral climate finance negotiations at the UNFCCC and developing the institutional framework for infrastructure regulation and investment at the World Bank.

His role is to provide input to regulators on policy options for regulating and developing air transport infrastructure to meet current and future needs. He assesses the economic impact of proposed regulatory changes on competition and performance in the industry and on the economy using sector specific and nationwide models. George Anjaparidze holds a Master of Public Policy, specializing in energy and environment, from the Harvard Kennedy School and a Bachelor of Business Administration, with a concentration in Finance and International Business, from the Goizueta Business School at Emory University.