

Roncevert Almond

Partner & Vice-President, The Wicks Group

Roncevert (Ronce) Ganan Almond is Partner and Vice-President at The Wicks Group, based in Washington, D.C. His practice is devoted to U.S. regulation and policy, international law, and government relations involving aviation, aerospace and national security matters. Mr. Almond has advised government authorities in Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas on issues of international law and compliance with ICAO standards.

Mr. Almond serves as an editor for The Air and Space Lawyer – the leading publication for legal practitioners in the field – and a regular contributor to The Diplomat – an international affairs journal covering the Asia-Pacific. He is a contributing author to Aviation Regulation in the United States (ABA Book Publishing, 2014), a treatise on U.S. aviation law and applicable international regimes. Mr. Almond has also written extensively for publications such as the Harvard National Security Journal, Columbia Journal of Transnational Law, Fletcher Forum of World Affairs, Turkish Policy Quarterly, and International Law News. His work has been cited by the U.S. Congress, national and foreign media, think tanks and academic journals.

Mr. Almond is a regular speaker at industry events and international forums sponsored by organizations such as the American Bar Association, the American Society of International Law, U.S. Trade and Development Agency, and universities. He recently served as Chairman of the 2016 Africa Air Cargo Summit in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Mr. Almond has experience with the American political process having worked for U.S. Congressional members, state parties and three U.S. presidential campaigns. Additionally, he has worked with the UN Special Court for Sierra Leone and participated in the Duke-Geneva Institute for Transnational Law and Joint Program in International Human Rights Law at Oxford University. Mr. Almond holds a J.D., cum laude, and M.A. (Political Science) from Duke University and a B.A. (History), cum laude, from George Washington University.