

Dion Chamberlain

Dion Chamberlain has worked for the New Zealand Department of Internal Affairs for ten years, initially as a Senior Advisor to 'Identity Services' (Passports, Citizenship and Births, Deaths and Marriages), and more recently in a managerial role in passport operations. He has led assistance missions in the Pacific, focussing on the implementation of new passports and civil registration systems, and the supporting legislative and operational policy changes. He also has experience using 'Evidence of Identity' standards and guidelines to develop secure identity establishment and verification processes.

Dion has been Secretary for the ICAO Implementation and Capacity Building Working Group (ICBWG) since its formation in 2008, leading and contributing to a number of the Group's initiatives.
