

Biography: Chris Glaeser

Director, Global Safety: International Air Transport Association (IATA)

Mr. Glaeser has over 35 years of broad experience in the aviation industry. He was formerly the Vice President of Safety and Security at Alaska Airlines, Director of Flight Safety at Northwest Airlines, a USAF F-16 test pilot and has over 10,000 hours of flying time in a multitude of jet aircraft types. He currently manages the Global Safety Information Center for all 230+ IATA airlines, and represents IATA in all industry safety forums.