
Zhang Zhijun

Vice Dean of Air Traffic Department

Civil Aviation Management Institute of China (CAMIC)

Mr. Zhang is currently the vice dean of Air Traffic Department of CAMIC who is responsible to develop and conduct safety training program and studies for civil aviation of China.

Zhang has contributed himself to risk management in air traffic. And he has been deeply involved in Chinese runway safety program including participating in drafting the national runway safety plan of China, acting as an instructor in various training program for controllers, supervisors and safety inspectors.

Zhang has 17 years experience of an air traffic controller and has been an instructor, supervisor, inspector for air traffic and the director of an air traffic facility. Zhang is now also holding a private pilot license.